Prior to moving to Florida, Dale was the co-founder and Assistant Director at Morristown Memorial Hospital's School of Cardiovascular Technology in New Jersey. During her years teaching she authored three cardiac textbooks on arrhythmias and ECG interpretation.

Dale moved to Kauai and continued her medical writing while enjoying the island's wildlife and rainforests. She opened her own graphic design and printing business before moving to Florida in 2006 because of a terminally ill family member. The care he received at Hospice of Marion County motivated Dale to return to the medical field and participate in end of life decisions and care.

Photography, visiting antique shops, breeding Gouldian finches and canaries, gardening and graphic design are favorite hobbies.
